

The background of the entire page is a night sky filled with a dense field of stars, creating a starry or 'starry' effect. In the lower portion of the image, the dark silhouettes of several evergreen trees are visible against the starry sky. The overall color palette is dark, with deep blues and blacks, punctuated by the white and light yellow of the stars.

PREPARE

This is a simple practice to use for family and household worship at Christmas. So many of us are unable to gather in a corporate worship setting, but often struggle to figure out how to capture all that is Christmas in a way that's engaging and easy to use with our kids or with families that are in various places of faith.

A liturgy allows you to lead a gentle but worshipful format that attempts to capture the full meaning and joy of Christ's birth. You can gather a few simple materials to make the time special. The liturgy calls for four standard candles and one small candle; you can use flashlights, battery powered candles, birthday candles, or whatever you have on hand.

The prompts will encourage child/parent participation, but you can use this liturgy with any kind of group, small or large. If there are no children in your household, choose the child at heart who can bring some life to the questions ;) It can be helpful to print or share the liturgy so it's easy for people to follow along and read their part.

If you have a nativity in your home, consider moving it to the middle of the table and allowing different family members to hold up the various figures as they come into play.

This is a perfect way to begin your Christmas Eve or Christmas Day meal. You can use a modified version of the liturgy for smaller children, beginning with a retelling of the Christmas story (I love this video version from the Jesus Storybook Bible version) and shortening or simplifying the language given here. The beauty of liturgy is the repetition. Even if your kids don't fully understand this year, repeating these truths every Christmas provides the opportunity for the Spirit to enlighten their hearts over time.

If you desire to expand the liturgy, consider using a favorite Christmas carol at the beginning or the end, or reading from the scriptures from the endnotes.

In writing this, I felt a deep sense of confirmation that there is truly no greater gift than the gift of Jesus Christ. My prayer is that this small, imperfect offering creates a meaningful moment for you and your family this Christmas that allows your heart to feel the joy and hope of our Savior's birth.

YOUNGEST CHILD: WHY IS TONIGHT A MOST SPECIAL NIGHT,
AND WHY DO WE LIGHT CANDLES
TONIGHT?

Reader 1:

Because tonight the promises of God given so long ago are fulfilled in the birth of our Savior-King, Jesus: “the people walking in darkness have seen a great light, those who lived in the land of deep darkness—on them a light is shined.”

[light the first candle]

Heavenly Father, we light this candle to thank you for the hope that comes with Jesus’ birth, because hope is kindled when light shines into dark places.

Child: But how do we know that Jesus is this hope?

Reader 2:

The birth of Jesus was celebrated on heaven and on earth! God says that the heavens declare the glory of God, and that a star would come out of Jacob.

[point to star on Christmas tree or have one child hold up a star]

A star told of the birth of Jesus, sending wise men from the East to start a long journey to worship the baby king. The only thing brighter than that star’s light is the light of Jesus, who said “I am the light of the whole world.”

Oldest Child:

[light the little candle]

But how can such a little candle light up the whole world?

All:

Because God gave us great light in a small package!

Reader 1:

Jesus was born in a small town, Bethlehem, for “out of you will come a ruler for Israel, whose origins are of old, from ancient times.”

Reader 2:

Jesus was born as a little baby. His birth displays his humility, his troubles in this world mean he understands our humanity, and his sinless and holy life prove his purity. Jesus came vulnerable, helpless and human to show us that he knows what it’s like to be us, and to show us that God loves us.

Child:

And why did angels come to the shepherds not to the rulers?

Reader 1:

Because Jesus is our great shepherd, come not to dictate with power but to lead with love. And that message of love comes to those humble in heart who are looking for some good news. That’s why the shepherds rejoiced and worshipped the baby-King who is our always-good shepherd, Jesus.

Child:

So what is the first part of this good news?

Reader 2:

The first part of the good news is that Jesus is the Prince of Peace.

Child:

And how do we know that Jesus is this peace?

Reader 2:

Because Jesus creates peace by making all things right, in heaven and on earth. Jesus is our peace, and he gives us his peace, and no one can ever take that peace away.

[light the second candle]

All:

Jesus, thank you for being our prince of peace. We light the candle of peace to represent the peace that rules in our hearts and drives away all fear.

Child:

What is the second part of the good news?

Reader 1:

The second part of the good news is that Jesus is our Mighty God.

Jesus was a human, like us, but also in his nature he was also God, with no beginning and no end.

Child:

And why did mighty God come to earth?

Reader 2:

Jesus came to invite us to be a part of his kingdom, and to find us when we are lost, and to show us that he is the way, the truth, and the life. Jesus kept the all the promises God had ever made, to show us how great God's love is for us, that we can be his children too.

[light the third candle]

All:

God, thank you for showing us what love is: the gift of Jesus, who teaches us to love you, to love one another, and who shows his love through laying down his life for us so that we can experience eternal life with Him.

All Kids:

So why is this the BEST news?

Reader 1:

Because on Jesus' birthday, he gives US a gift--the most good and perfect gift! The free gift is eternal life in Christ, where we get to be in his kingdom forever.

And what kind of kingdom is God's kingdom?

Reader 2:

It's a place of feasting and laughing; more beautiful that you can even imagine. It's a place where all sad things are undone and there is no crying or pain. And it's a wonderful place for everyone who believes.

[light the final candle]

All:

Holy Spirit, you make our joy complete! We celebrate this most special night because we have the light of Jesus Christ in our hearts. Teach us to celebrate this gift with our life, our love, and our obedience to the Father.

Close your time with a favorite Christmas carol, or singing Happy Birthday to Jesus.
